

Linux File System, Permissions and User Management

07 July 2026

Task

Studied the Linux file system structure and important directories. Practiced viewing and modifying file permissions using `chmod` and understanding ownership using `chown`. Learned basic concepts of users, groups and privilege levels. Discussed why correct permissions are important for preventing unauthorized access to files and system resources.

Daily Training Diary